We are a growing active group of wine makers and grape growers who love to share our passion and appreciation for wine with others. We support all aspects of the winemaking industry, from the viticulturists who diligently tend their plants, to the winemaker who turns the harvest into a drink that delights the senses, to the consumer.

What We Do!

Our Passion

Education

We hold meetings to discuss wine and the growing of grapes and making of wine for our members.

We strive to learn from each other to enhance our skills and create a product that all can enjoy. We invite guest speakers from the industry to speak at our meetings.

We participate in local food events, harvest festivals and other local events. We conduct public outreach and viticulture education of the public.

We partner with other county wine and grape associations to share experiences.

Our Involvement

We are involved in the local community promoting and educating the public about the wine industry and its impact on the Oklahoma economy. We support legislation favorable to the industry and wine consumer.

We work closely with the state and university horticulture departments to promote education and further viticulture research.

We work closely with the state level Oklahoma Grape Industry Council (OGIC) to promote the grape and wine industry.

Grapes into wine

Our membership is open to any person or business organization interested in viticulture (grape growing) and/or enology (winemaking).

Dues: $50.00 annually, full time students can join for free. New members who complete the OSU Grape Management class get one year free dues!

Dues are used by the group to promote and educate the public about the wine industry in Oklahoma.

“When it comes to wine, I tell people to throw away the vintage charts and invest in a corkscrew. The best way to learn about wine is the drinking.” ~ Alexis Lichine (c. 1913–June 1, 1989)
